

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY
COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES

Department: Psychology
Position: Quantitative Psychology
Rank: Open Rank: Assistant Professor, Associate Professor, or Professor

Description:

The Department of Psychology at The Ohio State University invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant or tenured Associate Professor or Professor for a position in quantitative psychology. Applicants should be specialists in one or more of the following: psychometrics and psychological testing (e.g., measurement theories and test construction, reliability and precision of measurement, types of validity, test norming, test and item bias), statistical modeling of measurement related research topics (e.g., item response theory, factor analysis, structural equation modeling), and/or development of methods for longitudinal and time-series models.

Qualifications:

Candidates must have earned a Ph.D. in psychology or a related field prior to the expected start date (August 14, 2023). ABDs are welcome to apply. All candidates are expected to have a publication record commensurate with career stage and a fundable research program, make significant contributions to other substantive areas (neuroscience, cognitive, clinical, developmental, social and decision psychology, Intellectual Developmental Disabilities, and educational testing), and contribute to both graduate and undergraduate supervision and instruction. We encourage applications from women, members of underrepresented minority groups, and individuals with a commitment to mentoring underrepresented demographics in the sciences. Appointment is contingent on the university's verification of credentials and other information required by law and/or university policies, including but not limited to a criminal background check. Applicants at every rank will be considered.

The Ohio State University believes in diversity in people and ideas. What Ohio State does matters. And how we do it matters. When we are at our best, we make a real difference to people. We believe that the university should be a place where people can work and learn together in a safe environment, free of violence, harassment, discrimination, exploitation, and intimidation. As such, finalists for any faculty position that carries tenure must sign an authorization and disclosure form, which will allow current or prior employer(s) to share information to the University regarding any findings of employment-related misconduct or disciplinary proceedings against a candidate and/or any pending investigations related to alleged misconduct. Such information shall include findings and pending investigations with respect to sexual harassment, violence, or harassment; research misconduct; financial fraud or misconduct; foreign influence violations, grant misuse or misconduct; and/or any other type of finding or pending investigation relating to a candidate's employer's policies and rules governing faculty conduct that may reasonably be expected to affect a candidate's appointment. If the University becomes aware of any past finding of misconduct or pending investigations that were not disclosed, Ohio State will treat that as a serious omission and reserves the right to rescind an offer or terminate employment. <https://oaa.osu.edu/faculty-misconduct-reference-check>

The Ohio State University is committed to enhancing academic excellence. Recruiting, supporting, and retaining faculty of the highest caliber is a core component of this commitment. In support of this, The Office of Academic Affairs (OAA) has created the Office of Dual Careers and Faculty Relocation (DCFR) to focus on supporting new and prospective faculty. This support includes dual careers services, consultation and resources related to relocation, as well as identifying opportunities to engage on campus and the surrounding community. While employment opportunities are not guaranteed, resources and consultation are available to support the partners of new and prospective faculty as they are considering The Ohio State University and throughout their transition.

The Ohio State University is committed to establishing a culturally and intellectually diverse environment, encouraging all members of our learning community to reach their full potential. Over the next few years, The Ohio State University is committed to welcoming 350 new faculty hires, many of which will contribute to growing our role as a premier research university equipped to answer and interrogate the critical domestic and global societal challenges that deter equality and inclusion. We are responsive to dual-career families and strongly promote work-life balance to support our community members through a suite of institutionalized policies.

The Ohio State University is an equal opportunity employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation or identity, national origin, disability status, or protected veteran status.
